The Fordham University School of Law is located in Manhattan at the new Lincoln Center campus of the University.

The Law School building is located on West 62nd Street between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues—one block west of Broadway. It is two blocks west of Central Park, three blocks northwest of Columbus Circle and is readily accessible from the 59th Street-Columbus Circle stations of the IRT-Broadway-7th Avenue and the Independent 6th and 8th Avenue subway lines. The IRT has a convenient local stop at 66th Street-Lincoln Center as well, and the area is served by a number of bus routes.

Adjoining the School of Law to the north is the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts; fourteen landscaped acres on which stand the magnificent new Metropolitan Opera House, Philharmonic Hall, New York State Theater, Vivian Beaumont Theater and Library-Museum, the Juilliard School of Music and its Recital Hall, and Damrosch Park with a band shell for open air concerts.

The Agnes and Ignatius M. Wilkinson Chair of Law was created by the will of the late Dean Ignatius M. Wilkinson. The Chair was instituted on November 18, 1961 at the dedication of the Fordham University School of Law building at Lincoln Center. The first incumbent is Dean William Hughes Mulligan.

* Deceased January 16, 1967
For more than a century and a quarter, Fordham University has served the American community by offering instruction in the liberal arts and selected professional areas, on both the undergraduate and graduate levels. What distinguishes Fordham from other universities is the complex of academic specialties and traditions, the result of its heritage and its growth in New York City.

Fordham's oldest tradition, carried on through Fordham College, Thomas More College, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and the School of General Studies, is its commitment to educate talented young men and women in the liberal arts and basic sciences. This commitment emphasizes a rigorous intellectual formation, which stresses humanistic and cultural values, which is open to students of differing religious faiths and backgrounds, and which provides an opportunity not only for the mastery of secular intellectual disciplines but the possibility of studying them in an environment where religious values have a coordinate presence on the campus.

As an urban university, Fordham has a special relationship with the New York metropolis. This concept of community service is best expressed through its professional Schools of Law, Pharmacy, Business Administration, Education, and Social Service, which have made a significant contribution to its public life, and whose students are drawn largely from the New York metropolitan area.

Fordham is a Catholic university. It was founded under Catholic auspices and has been under the guidance of the members of the Society of Jesus, a religious order of men, dedicated to the task of higher education since 1540. The University is governed by a self-perpetuating, independent Board of Trustees, under a charter granted by the New York State Board of Regents.

Fordham, however, is not Church-related in the sense that it receives financial support from a Church body, or that it requires religious practices or studies of its students. For its Catholic students, who so desire, there is opportunity to participate fully in the liturgy and devotional life of the Church.

Fordham does believe that the rich intellectual and moral heritage of Catholicism has a place on any campus where the varieties of human experience are studied, and has relevance to a humanistic education.
This assumes that it should be approached academically, and in comparison with other traditions of present and past societies. The University seeks to attract professors and students from both Catholic and other traditions, in order to provide a more stimulating intellectual environment, and to increase together valuable insight into problems of common interest and concern.

The Law Department opened in the fall of 1905 and in 1907 was given the name Fordham University School of Law. After more than a half-century on lower Broadway, the School of Law moved to its present home at Lincoln Center in September, 1961. In the heart of New York City, the legal, commercial and financial capital of the world, the Law School stands at the southern end of the landscaped plaza which opens upon the cultural center of the nation, Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. Spreading to the north, through fourteen tree-lined acres, are the new Metropolitan Opera House, the Philharmonic Hall, the Juilliard School of Music, the Vivian Beaumont Repertory Theatre, the New York State Theatre and the Library-Museum for the Performing Arts.

In this setting of park and plaza spaciousness, unfettered by the rigid gridiron of city streets, the Fordham Law School building, completely air-conditioned, blends with the architectural elegance of its surroundings while retaining its unique character as a school of law. In addition to classrooms, seminar rooms, administrative, Law Review and faculty offices, the Law School building houses a magnificent Moot Court room, commodious lounges for students, faculty and alumni, a large, informal reading room, and a library, complete with the most modern equipment, capable of handling in excess of 250,000 volumes.

The School of Law is a community of scholars within the University, enjoying and perpetuating the heritage of Jesuit interest in the law and legal education. The faculty conceives its primary purpose to be the preparation of students for the practice of law and the stimulation of their interest in legal scholarship. This contemplates not simply the training of men and women qualified as legal technicians but more importantly their education as lawyers fully conscious of the grave responsibilities inherent in their profession.

The School of Law recognizes that it is preparing its students for service not only in the representation of clients but in the creation, interpretation and administration of the laws which govern the nation, state and municipality. The School of Law is cognizant, also, of its continuing obligation to be of service to its alumni and to the legal profession generally as the law continues its inevitable expansion and development.

The School offers a practical and scientific professional education in law. The curriculum includes a study of the principles of general jurisprudence, of the common and statute law of the United States, of the system of equity jurisprudence and, recognizing that a better understanding of the present can be acquired from a study of the past, of the historical and philosophical origins of law.

The course for the degree of Bachelor of Laws covers three academic years in the day division and four academic years in the evening division.

The case system of study is primarily used, carefully selected collections of cases being employed as the basis of instruction. The teacher and the students discuss the assigned materials critically and comparatively, both with respect to the facts and decisions reached and the rules and principles of law involved. Thus the students are trained in legal analysis and accurate reasoning, while at the same time they are acquiring familiarity with the principles of law and their development through the use of the actual decisions of the courts. The skills used by the lawyer in counselling clients, in drafting agreements, statutes and other legal documents, in trying cases, in arguing appeals and in legal research and legal writing are taught and practiced in class, in Moot Court competitions and on the Fordham Law Review to the fullest extent an academic atmosphere inspires and academic limitations allow.

The School recognizes the fact that a grasp of the broad principles of common law is essential for the well-equipped lawyer and aims to train its students so that they may be qualified to practice law in any common law jurisdiction.

It is the conviction of the faculty that a well-grounded lawyer, especially if he is to be equipped to be a leader in public affairs, should have inculcated in him a sound philosophy of law. To this end, a comprehensive course in Historical and Analytical Jurisprudence is given. Thus due consideration is given to the ethical and historical aspects of the problem with which the philosophy of law is concerned and to the traditional scholastic and American viewpoint on the ultimate basis of civil authority and limitations on the power of the state.

It is believed that the courses of the School are so arranged as to unite a sound training in the fundamental principles of the law with a training in the practical application of these principles to actual legal work.
ACCREDITATION

The Law School is a member of the Association of American Law Schools and is on the approved list of the American Bar Association. Fordham University is a member of the Council of Higher Educational Institutions in New York City.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

The School of Law is open to men and women. No discrimination is made on the ground of race or religious belief. Applicants for degrees must be at least eighteen years of age upon entering the first year class and must be of good character.

Every applicant must be a graduate of a college or university approved by the University of the State of New York and must present a certificate that he holds an accredited degree conferred after satisfactory completion of a four-year college course, together with a full transcript of his scholastic record.

Where the applicant at the time of forwarding his transcript has not completed all of the college work on which he seeks admission, a transcript of record to the end of his last completed term may be furnished and the transcript for the term which he is then attending is to be transmitted immediately after his completion of the work thereof.

As a prerequisite for admission, an applicant must take the Law School Admission Test. Information about this examination may be obtained at the Admissions Office or by writing to Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J.

Applicants taking the test should request that their score be reported to the Fordham University School of Law. Results will also be sent to the applicant and such other law schools as he may designate.

No special preparation for the test is necessary, as it is intended to measure intellectual capacity and aptitude rather than knowledge of particular subject-matter. The test should preferably be taken before formal application for admission to the School of Law.

Applicants for admission will be accepted on the basis of their presumptive fitness to pursue the study of law with success as disclosed by their college records, their scores on the Law School Admission Test, and the information as to character and fitness contained in the statement required to be filed by all applicants, as well as such other data as may be available or required.

Any applicant who has attended any other law school and who either has been required to withdraw therefrom or who is ineligible to continue without condition in regular course therein by reason of deficiency in scholarship, or otherwise, will not be admitted to this School.

Applicants whose degrees are not registered by the State Education Department of New York as acceptable to admit the holders thereof to law study, must obtain a Law Student Qualifying Certificate. Application for a Law Student Qualifying Certificate should be directed to the University of the State of New York, The State Education Department, Division of Professional Education, Albany, New York 12201. Those who meet the School’s requirements for admission should have no difficulty in procuring such certificate where necessary.

An applicant who has satisfied all of the entrance requirements for regular first year students, and in addition has completed successfully one or more years of law study in a law school maintaining standards satisfactory to this School and duly registered by the University of the State of New York, and who is eligible to return to such law school in regular course, may be admitted to advanced standing. The amount of credit which will be given in such a case will depend upon the standards of the school and the quantitative and qualitative record of the student therein. Generally advanced standing will not be granted beyond the second year in the day course or the third year in the evening course.

The required course for the degree of Bachelor of Laws in the day division of the School extends over three academic years, in all of which at least twelve periods of classroom instruction per week are required. Students entering this division are expected to devote substantially all of their working time to law study. The required course for the degree of Bachelor of Laws in the evening division of the School extends over four academic years. The average number of classroom hours per week in the Evening division is ten; however, in special cases and with the Dean’s permission, a student may be permitted to take a minimum of eight hours.

The work of the four years in the evening course equals that required in the three years of the day course. The class schedules in the evening course are so arranged that the student is usually not required to attend classes in excess of four evenings every week.
Every candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Laws will be required to take all of the courses prescribed in the curriculum in the first and second years. In the third year of the day division and the third and fourth years of the evening division part of the courses are prescribed and part are elective. A sufficient number of the latter courses, including at least one of the Practice courses, must be elected by the student to make up with prescribed courses the minimum number of hours required each year.

Upon making the necessary arrangements with the Admissions Office, including payment of the additional cost, a student may take at least one additional elective course per semester, provided there be no conflict with other courses elected or prescribed.

The School of Law admits students to the first year and with advanced standing only in the fall semester.

Applicants for admission to the School may apply by mail or they may appear in person at the Admissions Office at the law school at Lincoln Center to fill out the necessary statement and application on the School form and to file the required credentials. The Director of Admissions will mail forms on request.

The Admissions Office will receive applications for the fall term from the previous November 1st. All applications must be accompanied by a ten dollar application fee. This fee is not refundable in any event and is not creditable against tuition or other charges.

As the School limits the number in every session, and as time is usually required for consideration of the application as well as to procure the necessary credentials and records, early application for admission is desirable.

Students will not be registered under abbreviated or colloquial forms of recognized names. The registered name of the student will be entered on all certificates and degrees of the School, except in case of obvious error, or where the student shall have filed with the School a duly certified copy of an order of a court of competent jurisdiction permitting a change of name, and proof, satisfactory to the School, of compliance with the terms, if any, of such order.

Entering students must register personally on the Monday or Tuesday preceding the start of the fall semester. All students already enrolled in the Law School must register personally prior to the start of the school year. The dates of such registration period are published in the academic calendar. All students must personally register for the spring semester at the times set by the Admissions Office and published in the Academic Calendar. No student who fails to appear as required above will be permitted to attend class without the special permission of the Dean. A late registration fee of ten dollars ($10) will be charged in those cases where the Dean has permitted a student to register after the stated time.

The continuance upon the rolls and the graduation of each student, the awarding of academic credits, and the granting of any certificate or degree are strictly subject to the disciplinary powers of the University. The University reserves the right in its discretion and without stating any reason, at any time to cancel a student's registration, or to refuse to award academic credits, or to deny a certificate or a degree.

The disciplinary authority of the University is vested in the President of the University in such cases as he deems proper, and, subject to the reserved powers of the President, in the deans or other officers upon whom jurisdiction may be from time to time conferred.

The classes in the day division are scheduled between the hours of 9:30 A.M. and 5 P.M. on every weekday except Saturday.

In the evening division classes will be held in the evening on every weekday except Wednesday and Saturday, commencing at 6 o'clock. Certain elective courses open to day or evening students or both may be scheduled for Wednesday evening or Saturday morning.

Once registered in either a day or evening division of the School, a student may not transfer to the other division.

The School reserves the right to change the hours of classes at any time at the discretion of the Faculty.

Class schedules are published at the beginning of each term.

1. Every student must occupy the seat assigned him. Otherwise an absence will be charged against the student's record even though he be present.

2. Excessive absence during the year bars the student from examinations and cancels all credit for the year's work.

3. Unexcused absence from more than half the lectures in any course bars the student from examination in or attendance credit for such course, even though the student's aggregate absence for the year is not excessive within Rule 2. In such case a failure in the course will be entered on the student's record.

4. Death in the student's immediate family or the serious illness of the student is cause for excuse of absence in the Dean's discretion provided the total of previous absence excused and unexcused plus the period of absence for which excuse is sought is not so excessive as in the Dean's opinion to prevent certification of good and regular attendance of the student as required by Court Rule.

5. Where absence is sought to be excused for illness, certificate of the attending physician establishing the fact to the Dean's satisfaction must be filed immediately upon the student's return. This should contain 1) the date of commencement and termination of the illness; 2) a statement of its general nature; and 3) the physician's certification that the student was prevented thereby from attending lectures.

6. Students are advised to keep accurate records of the absences, as the Admission Office will not issue any warning to them prior to their exclusion in the event of excessive absence as aforesaid.

7. The number of absences charged against a student is the official records is conclusive in all cases except where obvious clerical error appears.

8. Excessive absences under Rule 2: day division, 31 hours of unexcused absence; first and second year of the evening division, 21 hours of unexcused absence; third and fourth year of the evening division, 26 hours of unexcused absence

EXAMINATIONS AND GRADES

Written examinations are held at the end of every term in subjects completed therein and as essential parts thereof. Classroom work, so far as practicable, is also a determinant of general standing.

Examinations for all classes will begin promptly at the hour announced in the examination schedule posted prior to the examination period in each semester.

Students must present themselves for examination at the examination held immediately upon completion of every subject unless excused by the Dean. Omission to do so will constitute a failure of such examination by the student.

The standing of students will be indicated by the letters A, B, C, D, and F, signifying Excellent, Good, Fair, Poor and Failure respectively. A paper of exceptional merit will be marked A+.
A grade of D or better constitutes a passing mark in a subject. To continue in good scholastic standing, however, a student must maintain a weighted average grade of at least C in every scholastic year. Any student who fails to do so will not be permitted to continue in the School or to be a candidate for degree. Students whose weighted grade average is below 75% but above 70% will receive a C—average which will serve as a warning to the student that his performance has been in a border-line category.

In case a student is permitted to defer an examination, he must take the next examination given in the subject. In the meantime, if on the examinations taken by him his weighted average is at least C, he may be allowed to continue conditionally in the School, subject to his maintaining at least said weighted average grade when the deferred examination is taken. If on the examinations taken by him his weighted average grade is less than C, he will be excluded from the School unless and until on taking the deferred examination his weighted average grade is brought up to at least C.

Failed or omitted examinations aggregating in the year-hour value more than one quarter of the required work of any year will constitute a failed year irrespective of the weighted average grade obtained by the student. In such case the student will not be permitted to take any re-examination in the failed subjects or to continue in the School or to be a candidate for degree.

In the case of failed or omitted examinations, if the year-hour value constitutes no more than one quarter of the year's required work, the examinations may be retaken at the next regularly scheduled examination period, except in the case of subjects in the final year of the course. Because of a University policy to award degrees only on the second Saturday in June, the first day of September and the first day of February, the conditioned examinations for senior students will be held during the second week of August so that the degree may be conferred in September. If the examination is again failed or omitted, the student will be required to repeat the subject.

Any student who fails to pass or does not take the first examination offered in a course required to be repeated as aforesaid will not be allowed to take any further examination therein, or to continue in the School or to be a candidate for degree.

Where the content of a course, in which a student has failed or deferred to take the examination, has changed subsequent to said examination, the student will be required to prepare

Some states, for example, Alabama, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Texas require that persons undertaking the study of law with a view toward practicing in those states register as candidates for the bar when they begin their study or prior to such study. Each applicant for admission to the School is advised to investigate the requirements of the state in which he intends to practice. The Director of Admissions will furnish on request the address of the particular state agency to which inquiry should be made. Timely fulfillment of these requirements for practice in the aforementioned states is essential and each student should complete his registration before classes begin. New York State does not require registration prior to the commencement of law school.

Graduates of the School who are citizens of the United States over twenty-one years of age and are actual residents of New York State, or who intend to become residents before the date of the examination, and intend in good faith to maintain such actual residence for at least six months prior to applying for admission to the Bar of this State, are eligible to take the New York State Bar Examination.

Under the revised rules of the Court of Appeals of New York, effective March 1, 1955 and amended April 1, 1963, candidates passing the bar examination are eligible for admission to practice upon satisfying the requirements of the Committee on Character and Fitness in the judicial department having jurisdiction of the candidate’s application for admission.

LAW LIBRARY

The capacity and promise of a law school is, in great part, measured by its library. The School’s library—in architecture, in decor, in functionalism—is the product of years of research, designing, testing and redesigning to determine how best to serve legal scholarship within the law school and among its alumni. Its east wall of glass overlooks a large landscaped green; the main reading room is designed to provide spaciousness and comfort and to encourage research and study.

A balconied reading area surrounds two sides of the main reading room. On the north side of the main floor are lawyers’ rooms, a microfilm room and, interspersed among the stacks, carrels for individual study. The book stacks extending through five levels are easily accessible. An auxiliary and more informal reading room, occupying more than 5,000 square feet, is located on the lower level of the library wing.

The library contains more than 70,000 volumes, including an extensive collection of American, English and Canadian materials, international law and foreign law as well as the complete National Reporter System, the official state reports of substantially all states, the statutes of all the several states, citators and state and regional digests. A large and ever expanding collection of textbooks, treatises, legal periodicals and standard encyclopediae is also maintained by the library.

The library is open daily during the school year to students of the School of Law and its alumni, from 9 A.M. to 10 P.M., except on Saturdays when it is open from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

BOOKS AND BOOK STORE

The University Shop maintains a temporary branch on the ground floor of the Law School building. It is open for a limited period at the start of each semester and carries the required casebooks and related items. It is estimated that the cost of new casebooks is about $100.00 each year for students in the day division; $75.00 per year in the evening division.

CAFETERIA

A cafeteria is located on the ground floor of the building. It has a serving and table capacity to accommodate one hundred and twenty people.
THE LAW REVIEW

The Fordham Law Review is published four times during the school year, in October, December, February and April, by a board of student editors chosen solely on the basis of their scholarship. The Review contains articles on a broad range of legal subjects written by members of the bar, by law school professors and by others expert in a particular area of the law, as well as notes on recent decisions and comments on legal topics prepared by the board of student editors. The publication of the Review and its use in various courses is considered part of the general educational program of the School. Law Review membership is the highest academic honor the School can confer and Law Review experience is considered ideal training for the practice of law.

The Law Review offices, on the second floor of the classroom wing, overlook the main reading room of the library. A private library and conference room is maintained by the Law Review on the same floor.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

All student activities of an extra-curricular nature are under the aegis of an elected Student Bar Association. The students who are members of this Association manage the trial and appellate moot court competitions, assist in orientation and coordinate all social functions. The Association, which maintains an affiliation with the American Law Student Association, an adjunct to the American Bar Association, also sponsors an annual series of guest lectures by prominent lawyers, handles a student insurance program and book exchange, and publishes a student directory.

MOOT COURT PROGRAM

An extensive moot court program, closely supervised by three members of the Law School faculty, is conducted for students in every year of study. A compulsory appellate competition is conducted in the spring semester of the first year, in which two-student teams argue questions of law on appeal from a pre-ordained decision of a trial court. A similar program is run in the fall semester of the second year on a voluntary basis, whereby through a process of elimination during preliminary arguments, three students are selected to represent Fordham in the Regional and National Moot Court competitions during their senior year. In recent years Fordham has had an outstanding record of success in Regional (New York City area) competitions.

In the spring semester of second year, and during the final year, trial moot courts are held. Here the student has the opportunity to interview witnesses, pick a jury, interrogate witnesses on the stand, introduce evidence and make a summation to a jury. During the course of his law school career, each student has ample opportunity to participate as a juror, witness, bailiff, party or attorney, and in the case of Law Review students, to act as a judge in a program which encourages him to put into practice the rules of law he has learned.

FRATERNITIES AND SORORITIES

Two national legal fraternities, Gamma Eta Gamma and Phi Alpha Delta, maintain active chapters at Fordham. Both strive to establish an enduring camaraderie among men with similar professional goals by programs emphasizing the social and cultural aspects of the lawyer's life. A branch of the national legal sorority, Kappa Beta Pi, was recently established at the Law School to provide a forum for the growing number of women studying law.
