Dear Mr. Ferraro:

I voted for Ronald Reagan in 1980 and was flirting with the idea of voting for him in 1984, until Walter Mondale selected you as his running mate. My support for the Democratic ticket grew when Mr. Bush and other Republicans began their attacks on your finances, and we later read that most of these hypocrites weren't opening up their financial records for public inspection. After watching

Your Press Conference yesterday, I just had to write to you to tell you how much I admire your honesty and courage in an adverse situation.
You can count on my vote as well as the rest of my family's votes.

Yours truly,
