Re Geraldine Ferraro

I am greek and I am democratic, this is the second letter I am writing to you, as I have stated prior so take heed, seeing the first didn't go well for you, therefore I'll be more specific

STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

Please if your not geraldine ferraro dont read any further, please forward it directly to her thank you.

I am not Napoleon, I am not Adolf Hitler. The world knows of me in this sense, I was born in the land of the pharoas, I am of european descend and I have been stamped an anti christ but different. What I will prove and convince the world, is that, nazism DID NOT originate in germany, in fact it originated in britain and is alive and well, also that it is hiding behind democracy. The BRITISH are the original nazis (example in britain the liberal party, in australia the liberal party and in america the republican party, (with canada I'll see France).

However unlike the German nazis (who were defeated) they, the british can never loose, simply that their never the backbone in time of conflict, thus if their forces ever loose it will be well over before it even gets to them. Only with the exception of w/w two the british simply saw their system in german hands, were as the liberal party was returned under british law, and the republican wanted an election in america, so they wouldn't be the backbone in case their forces lost, but were convinced by britain of their system been in german hands.

Check on american history as to how the english language originated and the methods used to obtain it and power, and you'll find that nazism occurred well before adolf hitler was even born. Britain (liberal) and america (republican) have been anti russian, anti communist, yet had allowed russian forces to take over all weapons, poison gases and rockets from germany at the end of w/w two, simply to cover up their system, by burning documents and executing german nazis who knew of the british nazi system.

The british caused a fair amount of trouble in egypt when they tried to take it over, but the europeans noticed the attempted take over and the methods used, and specifically to the egyptian authorities, thus the british were ordered to leave, but not before they burnt ~~off~~ evidence. That caused a reaction, in first the germans then the british the europeans were ask to leave, some did so not to cause any trouble among the egyptians.

after the surrender in south east asia by british forces, the british wanted to regain what they considered to be their country (AUSTRALIA). They came in and also brought them from britain, and filled the top position for they could read and write, then the nazi methods began. Although the europeans saw it at once and told the australians, there was no response, they begged them not to let it happen in their country, for they had seen it in them, an knew what could happen, the aussies couldn't see it as nazism because of their british accent. Yet for any attempt against the british they over powered, for they had them in the right places or threatened them with british forces to overthrow them. They beelied, abused, fined and jailed them, threatened and terrorised, called them communist if ever they opposed and claiming the russians were coming, causing panic and disorder which made it simple for them and their system to operate.

They told the diggers (that's the returned soldiers) to make the people keep to their left when walking the streets, and that, that order had come from the proper authorities (which were the british) was one form of dictatorship over the people used by the british. They would say things like "we have done it together before we can do again" The diggers who served in africa thought one thing, but the diggers who served in south east asia would reply "yes I know just you try and do it again". But finally they turned against the diggers, when they were of no more use, stating that making people keep to their left were tactics used in communist countries. Disheartening the diggers, dropped out, the british nazism succeeded and took full control of the people.

The world knows one part of nazism, but they don't know the second part, which is hidden. They can call any nationality communist with the exception of greeks, thus its beware of greeks. But in fact the main reason of using the saying beware of greeks, (or) they might use their saying you know what they say about greeks which is the same thing, is that the second part of nazism is taken from greek history.

Now understand this the best was you can (verbally I can ~~communicate~~ communicate in correspondence I can only try.) The greek history it is taken from, had happened 2,500 years ago, infact its the wooden horse of Troy, thus the saying beware of greeks. On the whole it isn't what it seems, or if you like as the british say it all depends how you see it so not to give them selfs away which is neither here nor there. It merely seemed a wooden horse, but yet there was more to it then met the intellect, as you will find between british nazi and german nazi, for instance with the german nazis one of their strategies was when they had said the five amo dumps were buried under egypt, but infact they were buried in the zahara desert, under the lettering E.G.Y.P.T. so it was more then met the intellect. The british intorn were giving the germans things to believe which were not so, same system prior to the invasion of normandy etc etc. How the germans saw the british nazi system I will not mention directly, indirectly read above the answer is there but its more then meets the intellect.

The system is been used under the very nose of the world, e.g. When they say that their anti communist (although they are) yet you assume ~~the~~ it means democratic you never think of nazi (more then meets the intellect), but its also to know who is who nazi or democrat. They will admit that there in a democracy they will also answer directly of their nationality (for you dont have to be german to be nazi as the world thinks) for their well established

They will answer directly yes or no to questions of their nationality, of been anti communist, of what party they support, but some when asked are they democratic they will answer "you can say that", I would doubt very much if you can catch some one in ~~for~~ politics on that especially in a public debate. Now you can see what I mean by it isn't what it seems, or it all depends how you see it. The greeks will tell you that their democratic directly and specific as to other countries who follow the system. The russians will tell you that their communist directly and specific as to other countries who follow that system. Yet in english speaking countries there are some who will tell you that their anti communist giving you to believe that their democratic in what seems to be a democracy.

Their actually after world superiority, of taking over the world using the people of the democratic countries, for their dictatorship system is working for them. I have already done the first part and convinced them to stop their nazism to get of the street and do away with any fine or charges against australian which they did thus it had been written "he fails at his first attempt" simply means their was no final result. Now you know how it starts in australia and what I convince the world off.

This final part I have giving it some thought, but you and you alone will make the final decision, for one your part of the democratic party and your the opposition to BUSH but you might have to use Daddy Kennedy.

You will go for eternal peace (NOT PEACE) say eternal peace as did J.F. KENNEDY went for peace now deceased alleged that the communist did it, as did R.F. KENNEDY went for peace now deceased alleged that the communist did it, as did MARTIN LUTHER KING went for peace alleged that he was a communist

You are going for eternal peace, you are democratic therefore you have no fear of any one who is democratic, you have no fear of any communist after the statement made by the Kremlin of world peace, so if there is any danger it will be from these people who say that their anti communist giving us to believe that their democratic ~~system~~.

You have to take the lead and win office remember democracy was devised for peace instead of war or to concur others, but also remember although it allows any one to do and say as they like within the law it will also detect any outside source or any opponent within its system. Dont be fooled by the naziam referred to as freedom of speech, use democracy in your favour. Try not to give me away (although there is one liberal politician who know me in australia) and please dont use any amo I might require later on, I am going for 2,000 years.

Sincere Thanks

Mick.
