Gentlemen:

In the adversary question and answer situation (the tough questions scenario) with Geraldine Ferraro, it occured to me that the three reporters were very much out-matched today.

It is not unusual for reporters "the good talkers" to be at a loss when matching wits with a person of superior acumen. I found this to be true today: Brinkley, Will and Donaldson being a poor match with the sharp little Ferraro.

It seems grossly unfair to me for reporters to out match themselves in this manner. In another round of this kind I suggest the number of reporters be doubled, six to one, so that the result is in the least fairly even.

Sincerely,

c/c Mrs Ferraro
