Dear Geraldine:

Just a quick note of condolence on the election. I agree with what lots of people have been saying, that it wasn't a vote against Gerry Ferraro or for Ronald Reagan, but against Jimmy Carter and the shame of Iran. I am sure that you will bounce back quickly and will be ready to run for the top spot, without the excess baggage of Plains, Georgia, in the next election. By then, I'll be ready to be Ambassador to Ireland. The next Irish Institute newsletter will be out just after Christmas. Please have someone on your staff drop my father a note so I'll know where to send it (or have them send a note to Ireland). His address is:

New Hyde Park, NY

Best wishes:
