

1989

Gender Equality in the Legal Profession

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ir.lawnet.fordham.edu/flr>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

Gender Equality in the Legal Profession, 57 Fordham L. Rev. 931 (1989).

Available at: <https://ir.lawnet.fordham.edu/flr/vol57/iss6/1>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by FLASH: The Fordham Law Archive of Scholarship and History. It has been accepted for inclusion in Fordham Law Review by an authorized editor of FLASH: The Fordham Law Archive of Scholarship and History. For more information, please contact tmelnick@law.fordham.edu.

Gender Equality in the Legal Profession

Cover Page Footnote

In the October issue of Volume 57, the Fordham Law Review published an essay by Judge Judith S. Kaye entitled "Women Lawyers in Big Firms: A Study in Progress Toward Gender Equality." In response to the interest generated by this article, the Review invited several practitioners, judges and academics to express their views and observations on the subject of gender equality among lawyers. Beginning this collection of essays is an excerpt from a recently published book, Moral Vision and Professional Decisions: The Changing Values of Women and Men Lawyers. The excerpt present a fitting introduction to the subject of these essays by providing a fresh perspective on the roles of men and women in the legal profession.

ESSAYS

GENDER EQUALITY IN THE LEGAL PROFESSION

In the October issue of Volume 57, the Fordham Law Review published an essay by Judge Judith S. Kaye entitled, "Women Lawyers in Big Firms: A Study in Progress Toward Gender Equality." In response to the interest generated by this article, the Review invited several practitioners, judges and academics to express their views and observations on the subject of gender equality among lawyers. Beginning this collection of essays is an excerpt from a recently published book, Moral Vision and Professional Decisions: The Changing Values of Women and Men Lawyers. The excerpt presents a fitting introduction to the subject of these essays by providing a fresh perspective on the roles of men and women in the legal profession.

—The Editors

